

Joint Pathway Document

The Governing Structure within Northern Ireland for Archery is through Archery Northern Ireland, whilst the Governing Structure for Archery within the Republic of Ireland is through Archery Ireland and represents archers throughout the entire island. Requirements to represent both of these associations internationally differ. This document will provide athletes with the information they require to choose Archery GB or Archery Ireland international representation and the considerations to enter both pathways.

Good Friday Agreement – The Northern Ireland Act 1998

Further to the Belfast/Good Friday Agreement, any Northern Ireland citizen has the birth right to identify him or herself as British, Irish or both

How does the Good Friday Agreement affect my choices as an athlete?

A Northern Irish citizen has the right to choose which nation they represent.

A club or governing body must accommodate freedom of choice regarding an individual's national identity and should not place any obstacle in the way of those whose preference may be at odds with the general alignment of the organisation.

Can I represent both Great Britain and the Republic of Ireland?

Whilst you may choose to identify with both nations, you can only declare for one at any time. Where an athlete chooses to maintain both identities then it would not be reasonable for that person to be declared eligible to compete for both nations simultaneously and in these circumstances, reasonably it would be expected that the athlete must declare for either the UK or Ireland but not both.

Can I change which Nation I represent?

Yes, it is possible to change who you represent. Where an athlete makes a decision to change national allegiance then it would be appropriate for the athlete to have made that declaration for a defined period prior to being eligible to represent that nation and, for example, to have played with a club affiliated to that national body for a specified period of time e.g. one year.

What are the current expectations for athletes in the pathways for Archery Ireland and Archery Northern Ireland?

The National Squad for Archery Ireland is decentralised and hosts squad days throughout the year at various locations.

The pathway for Archery Northern Ireland is centralised with Performance Academy camps for both Olympic and Paralympic Disciplines currently held in Lisburn. If selected to represent the GB National Squad, they host various squad weekends and competition camps both at Lilleshall, National Sports Centre and internationally. If selected to represent the Paralympic World Class Programme, the programme is centralised and trains at Lilleshall, National Sports Centre bi-weekly.

Both these options vary in cost and should be considered when deciding representation, as various competitions and training is self-funded unless specified.
